The Trouble With a Presidential Primary...

Those who argue that a national presidential primary is superior to a nominating convention had their comeuppance in the opening session of the Democratic assembly at Miami Beach.

I watched the televised proceedings until 1 a.m. Tuesday—with the feeling that the only person in the madhouse who understood what it was all about was Lincoln O'Brien, although he was in the process of being overwhelmed.

What you have here is the end result of any presidential primary. Sen. McGovern assembled a war chest, hit the campaign trail, promised everything to everybody—and moved into the Miami Beach convention apparently in full control.

Would-be reformers scorn the old-time convention and its "smoke-filled rooms," but is the picture any purer when a man parleys the business of promising every man, woman and child in the U.S.A. a thousand dollars a year into a powerful bid for the party's nomination as President?

If the convention is corrupt the least you can say for the primary is that it's a sucker for the charlatan.

The tactics of the primary trail wouldn't work in a convention, for in a convention there are men to apply brakes to extremists.

In the primary a candidate is thinking only of Summer and nomination.

But in a normal convention the thinking centers on Autumn and the presidency.

Miami Beach represents a convention dominated by primary results—therefore the Democrats, like the Goldwater Republicans of 1964, are about to nominate the very extremist the G.O.P. hoped they would.

Actions taken at convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Here are the actions taken by the Democratic National Convention in its marathon session on credentials challenges Monday night and early today:

—Returned 151 California votes to Sen. George McGovern, overturning the Credentials Committee ruling that the state's winner-take-all primary violated reform guidelines.

—Upheld the Credentials Committee in its ouster of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and 58 other delegates, and in its actions adding women in two other Illinois delegations.

—Rejected a woman's caucus appeal to add more women to the South Carolina delegation.

—Rejected an appeal by a slate of black challengers to be seated in place of Alabama supporters of Gov. George C. Wallace.

—Ratified a compromise agreement for adding four more blacks to the Georgia delegation, which had been worked out by Gov. Jimmy Carter and civil rights leader Julian Bond.

Challenges against delegations from Kentucky, Hawaii, Missouri, Michigan, Virginia, Washington, Rhode Island, Texas, Connecticut and Oklahoma were dropped.

VP post offer to Kennedy

By GREGG HARRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy is among two or three people being considered as Democratic running mates by Sen. George McGovern, McGovern's campaign manager said today.

"The list has fewer than five names on it at this point," Gary Hart said.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock also is on the list, Hart told newsmen. Hart said there is a good chance that the South Dakota senator will offer the position on the Democratic ticket to Kennedy sometime today. However, Hart said, there is no guarantee Kennedy will accept the position.

The same names—Kennedy and Woodcock—were offered as possibilities by McGovern's wife Eleanor at her own news conference.

Labor leaders have been backing Humphrey and opposing McGovern, but the UAW has stood apart from this partnership.

Kennedy far from convention

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — While his fellow Democrats were kicking off the first day of their national convention, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy remained far from the Miami Beach convention site as he entertained members of his family with a sailing party off Cape Cod.

Kennedy's day Monday included the party for several hours on his new 54-foot sloop with his sister Eunice Shriver and Ethel Kennedy, the widow of his brother Robert. Seventeen of the children of Kennedy families went along on the early afternoon outing. Kennedy said the sailing party was to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Shriver, his oldest sister.

Kennedy spent the morning at work on a briefcase full of accumulated papers and reports brought to Cape Cod from his Washington office.

The senator said he has no plans to go to Miami Beach.

In the spotlight...

Sen. George McGovern and his strongest supporter, Eleanor McGovern, are basking in the spotlight at the Democratic National Convention.

Go against Mills' wishes

8 state delegates back winning side

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When the crunch came, Sen. George McGovern picked up eight Arkansas votes on his way toward the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention.

The eight Arkansians who voted to give to McGovern all 271 of the delegates he won in the California primary June 6 went against the wishes of the man they are pledged to support for president—Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

McGovern regained the full California delegation by a convention vote of 1,618.28 to 1,238.22. The Credentials Committee had stripped him of 151 delegates on grounds that California's winner-take-all primary was in violation of party rules.

The Arkansas vote on the California challenge first was announced as six for and 21 against. But when a newsmen telephoned Gov. Dale Bumpers for a comment on the vote, he said, "I can't give you one because the vote is still changing."

After the roll call was complete, Bumpers got recognition to change the vote to eight for, 19 against.

Bumpers said delegates Linda Torrence of Little Rock and Lillian Hodges of West Memphis changed their minds between the two reports. Both had said during a pre-convention poll of the delegation that they favored McGovern after Mills.

There appeared to be no break in the delegation's solid support for Mills as long as Mills stays in the race. Mills' hopes of becoming a compromise candidate after McGovern has been stopped were dimmed by the smashing McGovern victory in the California fight.

After the California vote, Arkansas voted 17-10 for an anti-McGovern position involving some rulings

Vote of confidence called

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Claiming to represent all but one candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, forces of Gov. George C. Wallace have called for a vote of confidence on Lawrence F. O'Brien as chairman of the party's national convention.

The challenge to O'Brien, who is also chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to either seek the vote or step down from the convention post was issued by Charles S. Snider, campaign director for the Alabama governor.

Wallace endorsed the notion when he met reporters Monday for the first time since he was shot and crippled in an assassination attempt May 15.

Snider, declining to name the sole candidate who is not supposed to be a party to the challenge, said it was prompted by O'Brien's "arbitrary decision" on seating the California delegation.

O'Brien allowed 120 California delegates pledged to Sen. George McGovern to vote on a challenge to the state delegation.

The chairman "took it upon himself to make this arbitrary decision and it's up to him to straighten it out," Snider said.

20 subpoenas are issued in election case

Twenty witness subpoenas were issued by the prosecuting attorney's office yesterday in connection with the investigation into the alleged opening of the absentee ballot box following the May 30 Democratic preferential primary.

Eighteen of the subpoenas were served by sheriff's deputies; two persons were out of town.

Witness subpoenas were issued to the following persons:

Donal Parker, chairman of the Hempstead County Democratic Central Committee; Mrs. Pat House, county clerk, Harry Hawthorne, county treasurer, Janelle Hollis, Lois O'Neal, Myrtle Sutton, Susan McCain, Will Rutherford, Alston Hudson, Mary Hudson, Mary Leverett, Juane Reynolds, Bob Odom, E.C. White and Gary Wheeler, all of Hope.

Others subpoenaed were Monroe Stuart, and Sloman Goodlett, both of Ozan; Howard Reece and Wilma Reece of Shover Springs; and Garland Kidd of Spring Hill.

Subpoenas were not served on Lois O'Neil or Odom. (Also expected to testify in the case is Sheriff Henry Snyard.)

The above witnesses were scheduled to testify concerning the alleged opening of the absentee box, which, according to the prosecuting attorney's office was reportedly opened to check on a specific race—the county committeeman's race between Garland Kidd and W.E. Tarpley, both of Spring Hill.

Tarpley won the race by one vote. Testimony in the case began at 9:30 this morning and was scheduled to continue until mid-afternoon.

McGovern victory is certainty

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern today cinched the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, going over the top minutes after rival Hubert H. Humphrey withdrew from the race.

An Associated Press poll showed a combination of newly attracted delegates plus one-time supporters of Humphrey added up to a first-ballot victory for McGovern.

Attention quickly shifted to McGovern's choice for vice president, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts was high on the list of possible running mates, according to McGovern aides.

Humphrey withdrew with a pledge to keep fighting for "social justice" but without an endorsement of McGovern. Two other rivals, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, pledged to remain in the race hours before the start of the second session of the nominating convention.

His eyes brimming with tears, Humphrey bowed out at a news conference.

McGovern's display of organizational muscle came when he recaptured 151 disputed California delegates at the peak of a tumultuous session.

But with victory within reach in the convention's opening session, the McGovern camp failed in an effort to engineer a compromise to seat both Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and a heavily pro-McGovern group of Illinois challengers.

The convention then voted to oust the powerful Chicago mayor in a move expected to have far-reaching consequences both throughout the party and in its fall campaign for the White House in the politically crucial state of Illinois.

Party leaders had feared the opening night session would run into the daylight hours.

But the showdown votes on California and Illinois were followed by a series of compromises that quickly brought the opening session to a close a few minutes before 5 a.m. EDT.

In terms of the party's presidential fight, the California test was crucial, perhaps decisive.

According to an Associated Press count, addition of the 151 California votes brought McGovern within about 25 votes of a first-ballot nomination with other uncommitted delegates expected to move his way.

It took two votes, both decided by larger than expected margins, to settle the California credentials dispute.

First, the McGovern forces overturned by a vote of 1,618.28 to 1,238.22 the Credentials Committee's decision — which had been engineered by backers of Humphrey, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and Gov. George C. Wallace — to deny McGovern all the California votes.

Then, by an even broader margin of 1,689.52 to 1,162.23, the McGovern forces defeated an attempt by a Florida backer of Wallace to challenge the parliamentary ground rules set by the presiding officer, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

In the Chicago case, too, there were two votes as the McGovern side sought at the last moment to compromise — even though Daley's side said compromise was impossible.

HHH quits! Muskie too!

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A tearful Hubert Humphrey today abandoned his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, virtually assuring a first-ballot victory for front-runner George McGovern.

The "Happy Warrior" stepped down with a pledge to keep fighting for "social justice." He did not endorse McGovern, however.

Bulletin

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie is also withdrawing as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, sources said.

The former vice president appeared before newsmen and television cameras with Mrs. Humphrey at his side and with other members of his family standing behind.

He said he would continue to work for "justice and compassion," and declared he had waged a good battle within the rules of the game.

There were tears in his eyes as he bowed out of what is almost certainly his "last hurrah."

Humphrey announced his withdrawal after spending most of the morning asleep in his hotel room. He had stayed up most of the night, watching on television as the convention battled over the California delegation question.

Aides said he arose at 10:15 a.m., ate breakfast and conferred with his top campaign aides.

He called a meeting of the rest of his campaign headquarters staff to inform them of his decision.

He then walked to the meeting with the press and announced the end of his presidential hope.

Woman power: Jumps with ouster of Daley

By ANN BLACKMAN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — After a first-round defeat, women's efforts to gain more political punch in the Democratic party got a boost early today when the National Convention tossed out Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's Illinois delegation.

Supporting the decision of the Credentials Committee, the delegates voted by a narrow margin to replace Daley's 59-person slate with one more reflective of the state's population. The 23 extra women in the new delegation upped the percentage of women delegates at the 1972 convention from 38 to 40 per cent.

The Chicago decision softened an earlier refusal by delegates to split the South Carolina contingent equally between the sexes.

The delegates voted 1,555 to 1,429 to reject a challenge to the Palmetto State's 32-person slate that would have increased the number of women in it from 9 to 16.

Rep. Bella Abzug of New York hailed the Illinois decision as progress. She had condemned the South Carolina move as a defeat.

Rep. Abzug, a member of the National Women's Political Caucus (NWPC), said it was not a major defeat but "it shows we're not going to get anything but a struggle."

"We're going to continue fighting," she added.

Betty Friedan, an NWPC leader, called the defeat "a rough learning experience."

"It just shows we've got to get our strategy back on the issues," she said. "We can't let ourselves be compromised."

Ms. Friedan (she asks that title be used) said she planned to set up a NWPC strategy session today to rally floor captains and women delegates to the cause of seating more of their sex.

"We don't want to come out of this thing with egg on our face," she said. "The women didn't hold strong for the issues that most concern them. Our strategy has been all wrong. Now I'm really mad."

Even so, women occupied many prominent spots as the convention cranked up its first night's business.

Mary Lou Berg, vice chairman of the convention, moderated the session. Secretary Dorothy V. Bush read the roll call as she has for every convention since 1944.

And wives of three presidential candidates occupied VIP boxes, greeting delegates who came to wish them well.

Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey said, "There may be arguments and debates, but this is democracy at work."

Nearby, Mrs. George McGovern headed a group of 12 members of her family. Although she had not originally planned to attend the opening session, she said "I just couldn't stay away. It was like the call of the hounds."

Mrs. Henry Jackson, wife of the Washington senator, occupied another box.

While Democrats wrestle in Miami, Nixon is dining

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — While Democrats wrestled through the first of their marathon convention battles, President Nixon dined at a Mexican-American restaurant — and displayed a good appetite.

With two friends in tow, Nixon drove to the nearby mission town of San Juan Capistrano on Monday night to sample the menu at the El Adobe, a restaurant that has long enjoyed his patronage.

Nixon dined on chile relleno — green pepper enveloped in an omelette-like cheese wrapper — and beef tacos. His waiter reported the chief executive was hungry and called for an extra order of tacos.

Furthermore, the waiter reported, Nixon was seated out of range of any television set.

As Nixon ate, Democrats at their convention in Miami Beach were voting on a challenge to the South Carolina delegation.

Nixon was back at his home here by the time the challenge to South Dakota Sen. George McGovern's California primary victory came to the test.

With Nixon at El Adobe were Hobart Lewis, board chairman of the Reader's Digest and a faithful campaign contributor; Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Key Biscayne, Fla., banker and presidential neighbor; and Lt. Cmdr. Craig Campbell, Nixon's Navy aide.

Parked outside was the Cadillac of restaurant owner Alfred

LOAN APPROVED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has approved a $580,000 Rural Electrification Administration loan for the Rich Mountain Electric Cooperative, Inc. at Mena, Ark., the office of Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., said today.

The loan funds include $551,000 for Arkansas and $29,000 for Oklahoma. The cooperative serves Polk, Howard, Montgomery and Sevier counties in Arkansas.

The funds are to be used to construct a substation, add 20 miles of distribution line to serve 300 consumers and make other system improvements.

Helicopters lift troops north of Quang Tri City

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marine helicopters lifted South Vietnamese troops into a combat assault zone north of Quang Tri City today, flying into a heavy barrage of fire behind enemy lines that knocked down at least three of the helicopters, the U.S. Command said.

The landings, by South Vietnamese marines, put government forces on three sides of the enemy-held provincial capital.

U.S. military spokesmen said the crewmen of two CH-46 medium helicopters were safe, going down inside South Vietnamese lines after being hit by anti-aircraft artillery and small-arms fire.

The fate of the crewmen aboard the third helicopter, a CH-53, the biggest U.S. troop carrying helicopter, was not immediately known.

The helicopters flew from carriers in the U.S. 7th Fleet of Apollo 15 crew disciplined for carrying 'covers'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency disciplined the three Apollo 15 astronauts today for carrying 400 unauthorized postal covers to the moon and back last July and then turning 100 of them over to an acquaintance in West Germany.

The 100 moon-stamped envelopes later apparently were sold to stamp collectors for $1,500 each, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

NASA said after an investigation that astronauts David Scott, Alfred Worden and James Irwin "exercised poor judgment in their action."

"Therefore they will be reprimanded and their actions will be given due consideration in their selection for future assignments," the agency said.

Dr. George Low, NASA deputy administrator, commented: "Astronauts are under ex-

U.S. seeking ways to cut trade deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will be seeking ways to cut its mounting trade deficit with Japan—now running at about $3.5 billion to $4 billion this year—at the first economic talks to be held with Japan's new government July 25-28.

U.S. Ambassador William Eberle, the special trade representative of President Nixon, will head a delegation representing the Departments of State, Commerce, Treasury, Agriculture, and Labor at policy-level talks in Hakone.

The United States would like to see Japan further liberalize its trade and end its import quotas on agricultural goods and computers.

American officials also would like to see the government of Premier Kakuei Tanaka encourage more purchases of U.S. products including feed grains and military hardware to bring Japan's purchases from the United States more closely in line with its sales to this country.

of Nebraska, a McGovern supporter, sought to suspend the rules and bring the compromise to the floor — a procedure requiring a two-thirds vote. But it failed to command even a majority, losing 1,483.08 to 1,411.05.

Then, heeding the plea of fiery Rev. Jesse Jackson, who warned that "if one cancer remains in the body, the rest of the body politic will die," the convention voted 1,486.5 to 1,371.5 to reject Daley's bid to supplant the group led by Jackson and Chicago Alderman William Singer.

Then, speeding adjournment of the first of four scheduled sessions, the convention agreed to drop credentials cases affecting delegates from Michigan, Texas, Rhode Island, Washington, Connecticut and Oklahoma.

Earlier, it rejected a challenge seeking more women in the South Carolina delegation and the bid of a racially mixed group to supplant the pro-Wallace Alabama group.

As the convention opened in the brilliantly lit convention hall, roving groups of demonstrators who had broken away from a protest rally assembled outside. One group pulled down a section of a restraining fence.

With addition of the 151 disputed California delegates, McGovern's committed first-ballot strength some 48 hours before presidential balloting begins Wednesday night reached 1,485.35 — just 23.65 short of the 1,509 needed to win.

The long opening-night session began half an hour late at 8 p.m. with welcoming speeches by Sen. Lawton B. Chiles, and Rep. Claude Pepper of Florida, Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall, and O'Brien.

Rogers visits Vatican City

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that the Vatican has made a number of attempts to aid American prisoners of war in North Vietnam but "so far to no avail."

Rogers said after a private audience with Pope Paul VI that the Vatican attempted, "directly or indirectly," to arrange an exchange of prisoners, more mail for the American POWs and a report from the North Vietnamese on Americans missing in North Vietnam.

The Vatican said the Pope told Rogers he hopes the resumption of the Paris peace talks will lead to "a realistic and final agreement" to end the Vietnam war. Such an ac-

Pollution suit filed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A suit has been filed in Chancery Court in Union County seeking to enjoin 10 oil companies from polluting Mill Creek and the lower Ouachita River, state pollution control officials said Monday.

Defendants in the state Department of Pollution Control and Ecology suit are Ascot Oils, Inc., Alice Sidney Oil Co., G. T. Abbott, Emco Oil Co., Hunter Producing Co., Inc., Key Oil Co., Inc., Kin-Ark Corp., Mrs. Perry Livingston, doing business as Livingston Oil Co., Sam Richardson Jr., Sam Richardson III and J. Eric Richardson, doing business as SEDCO, and R. E. Williams.

The suit said oil and salt water discharges from 46 wells operated by the defendants were reaching Mill Creek and the Ouachita.

The complaint said the wells were in the Champagnolle and Cypress Creek fields of Union County.

The state agency seeks the injunction to stop the defendants from polluting any waters of the state or from operating oil wells in any manner that would cause pollution.

Pink and white theme is used

Miss Martha Mosley, bride-elect of Michael Allen, was honored at a coke party on Saturday morning by Mrs. Orval Taylor and Mrs. John Wilson at the Wilson home on Country Drive.

The serving table was centered with a pink and white bridal arrangement of miniature wedding bells.

The 25 guests included Martha's mother, Mrs. Bill Mosley, Mrs. A. J. Reynolds of Texarkana, Miss Mary Magee of Magnolia, and Miss Gwen Malone of Houston, Texas.

The amount of water in the atmosphere above a square mile of land on a mid summer day is estimated to be 50,000 tons.

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottei

Cool Dude's Slang Outdated

Dear Rap:
I'd like advice about my jackass boyfriend. This dude, instead of asking me to go to a show says, "Let's cop a flick." He "digs" me. (Ugh!)

He calls TV "the tube," and is hooked on it. Instead of "Yes, dear," he whoops, "Right ON, pussycat!" I'd laugh except I'm too embarrassed.

He's a Chillicothe country boy who came to the big city and is trying to be with it, but the words are weird, like about 10 years out of date. Should I tell this jivin' cowpoke to buzz off or try to educate him? I like him sort of, otherwise. —L.I.W.

Dear L:
Sounds like the Chillicothe Kid hasn't got off his buckin' bronco long enough to see where he's at. Since he embarrasses you THAT much, you may not be the one to educate him.

He'll probably shake down in time, but if you're going to laugh at him, I think YOU should buzz off and let him find someone who won't —SUE

Dear L:
Look who's calling the kettle black! The poor guy, hearing all your slang, may hope to impress you with "goodies" he probably learned from "the tube." Can he help it if he picks outdated stuff from old re-runs?

...Or maybe he enjoys the way he talks.

Seems to me if you really like this fellow, you'd see the PERSON underneath and not be put off by a few un-choice phrases. —HELEN

Helen and Sue:
Is slang on the way out? For kids, I mean.

I hear more adults using it than we do. Last year about every other teen word was "cool," "freaky," "psyched out," "groovy," "weirdo," "right on," "where it's at," etc., etc. Now I hardly ever use any of these, and I haven't heard any new words lately. What's happening? —MARION What's happening (I think) is that teens are putting off the old overused words and making up their own original stuff. Like, "Oh fudge and bananas!" (instead of dull old "damn") etc.) or "She's a strung-out peanut," meaning kinda freaky.

It's fun, inventing a new expression. Who wants to be a follower? —SUE

Dear Marion:
The drug culture and the hippie movement introduced most of 1960's slang. Now, with both diminishing and no new wave in sight, young people aren't as apt to use those overdone words and phrases, or seek out new ones.

I truly hope you kids haven't given up slang. It's a vital and exciting part of our language.

Get busy, start inventing—and send us some samples, please! —HELEN

Dear Rap:

I like to go barefoot in the house and outside. My mother refuses to let me. Says it's too dirty outdoors, and inside I'll get splinters. On rug-covered floors? What's the harm in going without shoes once in a while? —BAREFOOTED NOT

Dear B.N.:

By us — no harm at all. We think barefoot is the only way to travel — at least around home, and sometimes elsewhere too if you can get away with it.

(Dear B.N.'s Mother: Let up, and concentrate on more important "No-No's"!) —HELEN AND SUE

Miss Hodges is shower honoree

Miss Rebecca Susan Hodges, bride-elect of Otis W. Blackwood, was honored at a evening party with a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Cecil Cox and Mrs. Charles Tilton, Jr., at the Cox home in Fulton, Arkansas.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. Tilton, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Otis A. Blackwood, mother of the bridegroom-elect, Miss Hodges and her mother, Mrs. Lewis D. Hodges, North Little Rock.

The dining table was covered with a floor length embroidered eyelet cloth, trimmed at the edge with ivy and centered with a silver epergne holding blue daisies and white carnations and stock with blue burning tapers. Fresh fruit, cheese loaf, open face sandwiches, dainty cake squares and punch were served.

Miss Hodges was attired in a blue and green knit frock, and was presented a cymbidium orchid and a cold meat fork and pierced tablespoon in her sterling silver by the hostesses. Mothers of the betrothed couple wore white carnation corsages.

Members of the houseparty were Miss Eleanor Seymour, Texarkana, Mrs. James T. Rowland, Mrs. Harold H. Rosenbaum, Mrs. Nancy Morrison and Miss Karen Rowland. Each wore a white carnation corsage.

The registry held a memory candle adorned with a bride and groom, and an arrangement of white carnations and blue star flowers. Eighty guests called during the appointed hours. Mrs. Fred Kuenhart, North Little Rock, aunt of the honoree, and Mrs. C. H. Wilson, grandmother of the future bridegroom, were special guests.

Pamela Smith weds Jerry Hartsfield

Miss Pamela Jane Smith and Jerry Wayne Hartsfield were united in marriage in the chapel of the First Methodist Church in Magnolia on Saturday, June 24, at half past two in the afternoon. The Rev. Howard L. Williams officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the nuptial couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Smith of Magnolia, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hartsfield of Hope.

Vows were exchanged before an altar graced with seven-branched candelabra holding softly burning white tapers. Arrangements of pink and white gladioli, pink asters, purple statice, and potted palms completed the setting. Ribbon bows marked the family pews.

Harold Sweitzer provided appropriate organ music and accompanied Miss Janet Holiman, who sang "Walk Hand in Hand."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire-designed gown of peau de soie, and featuring a Victorian yoke, high neckline edged in Venise lace, with full lace sleeves and deep fitted cuffs. Lace also banded the A-line skirt and was overlaid in tiers on the peau de soie chapel train.

Her elbow length veil was secured by a Camelot headdress of lace. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of miniature carnations, fleur d' amour and centered with two white orchids. Her only jewelry were gold earrings, a gift from her great-grandmother.

Miss Kay Franks of Magnolia served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Peggy Walker of Forrest City and Becky Huff of Hope. Flower girl was Miss Missy Zoll of Mt. Holly. They were identically dressed in floor length purple and orchid-checked gowns designed in an empire style. Each carried a white nylon basket filled with pink carnations, purple statice and gypsophila. They wore matching flowers tied with purple ribbons in their hair.

Danny Key of Houston, Texas, served as best man. Groomsmen were Paul Harvel of Little Rock and John Henley of Hope. Alan Phillips of Hope and Brian Smith were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Smith wore a fushia crepe dress with matching accessories. The mother of the groom chose a lavender knit, with matching accessories. Each wore a cymbidium orchid corsage at her shoulder.

A reception followed in the church parlor. The bride's table, covered with peau de soie and brought up with bows of purple at the corners, was centered with an epergne arrangement of pink and white carnations, purple statice, gypsophila and glowing white tapers. The three-tiered wedding confection, served by Mrs. Paul Harvell and Mrs. Paul Jackson, was adorned with fresh flowers. Miss Deborah Poindexter presided at the silver punch service, which was surrounded by fresh greenery, and Miss Zoll distributed rice bags to the guests. Mrs. Michael Williams assisted with the courtesies at the bride's book, that was placed by an open Bible and burning memory candle on a table skirted with silk organza.

For travel, the bride changed to a green and white knit dress, with white accessories. She pinned the orchids from her bouquet at her shoulder.

Following a short honeymoon, they will reside in Hope.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hartsfield were hosts for a rehearsal dinner, held Friday evening, June 23, at the Town House Restaurant. The T-shaped table was decorated with garlands of southern smilax, pink and white tapers and a centerpiece of pink and white asters. The nuptial couple chose this time to present gifts to their attendants.

Lucchesi gets ax; Owens takes over

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — General Manager Paul Owens, having also been elevated to the dual role of field boss of the Philadelphia Phillies, says he intends to remain at the helm only through this National League season.

Club owner Bob Carpenter surprised the baseball world Monday by elevating 49-year-old Owens into the dual capacity and firing manager Frank Lucchesi, 45, whose Phils were 166-233 in 2½ seasons.

Taking command, Owens saw his charges build an early lead, only to lose 6-4 in 11 innings to the Los Angeles Dodgers in the opener of a doubleheader. The Phils won the nightcap 9-1, as Woody Fryman hurled a six-hitter and Willie Montanez drove in five runs.

After the split, Owens categorically denied published reports that he assured Lucchesi Sunday his job was intact.

"Frank asked me if Dave Bristol (the former Cincinnati and Milwaukee manager) would take my place," Owens said. "I told him I'd only tried to contact him about a player, but was unsuccessful." Owens declined to name the player.

"I was just saying there was no truth of the rumor that Bristol would be hired," the Phils official said. "I didn't say his (Lucchesi's) job was safe."

Owens, who replaced the fired John Quinn as club general manager in early June, said he "would be inclined to go outside the Philadelphia organization" in picking his field successor after the 1972 season.

Lucchesi, who was visibly stunned by the firing, will remain in the Philadelphia organization as a consultant and said he may also serve as an advance man on road trips.

His 26-50 record as manager was the poorest in major league baseball this year.

Hope Auto defeats Sheriffs

On Monday, July 10, Hope Auto beat Sheriff's in the play-off game by a score of 5 to 4.

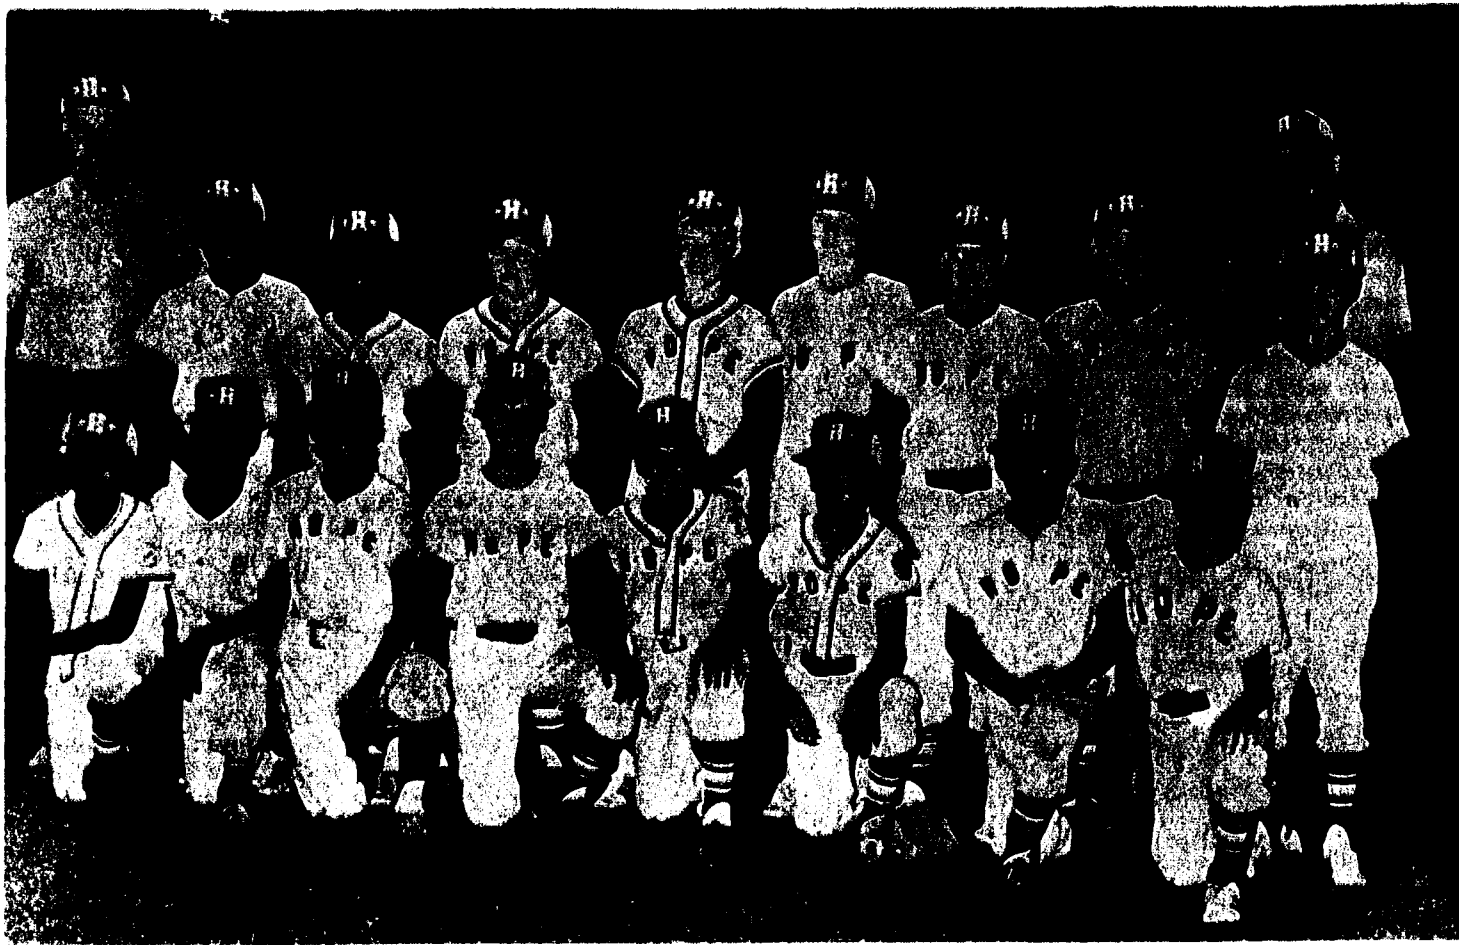

Rufus Herndon was the winning pitcher for Hope Auto. Sheriff's used Willis Williams and Dwayne Mayfield on the mound.

Leading hitters for the winners were Jim Henley getting his fourth home run, which was also his second grand slam. Leading hitters for the losers were Larry Rhodes getting one single.

After the game All-Stars were announced. They are as follows: Jim Henley, Rufus Herndon, Scott Rowland, and Tommy Allen from Hope Auto. Wayne East, Stan Harris, and Danny Williams from Barry's Gro., Alan Moore, and Lyn Ames (Alternate) James Mtr. Co., Larry Rhodes and Willis Williams from Sheriff's. Johnny Vickers, Britt Henry, and Chris Cagle (Alternate) from Lion's. Aaron Sheppard, CBC, Robert Smith, Walker's Ref., and Ricky Damon (Alternate) Greening-Ellis.

A special award was given to Kelly Butler for his outstanding sportsmanship and enthusiasm.

The All-Star team will play in the district tournament which will take place in Smackover.

Nicklaus is favored to win British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — "I knew Bobby Jones well," said Jack Nicklaus, "and I like to think he would be very happy if I won the Grand Slam."

That remark from the American favored to win the British Open championship this week bridged a whole era of golf.

The late and much-loved Jones achieved what then was called the Grand Slam in 1930, when he won the amateur and open championships of both the United States and Britain.

His feat stands as one of the supreme acts of competitive golf.

Nicklaus now faces an even more formidable challenge in an age when rivalry is more intense, when the rewards are great and when the golf explosion has brought the game into every home via television.

He has won the U.S. Masters and Open. The British title has to be next, and the American PGA in August to sweep the big jewels for the modern slam crown.

"I'm not thinking about bringing off all four," said Nicklaus, sporting tartan slacks. "I'm playing the tournaments one at a time, and that's enough to think about."

Nicklaus, who won the first of his two British crowns here in 1966, never has been beaten over Muirfield's 6,892-yard, par 36-35-71 layout. He came here first in 1959 as an amateur and sealed his love affair with Muirfield by capturing the open title seven years later.

"It's nice to know I haven't been beaten on this course," Nicklaus said. "But favorites can fall fast at Muirfield. I only hope I will be standing here in front of the clubhouse next Saturday with my record intact."

In winning here in 1966 Nicklaus used his driver only 17 times over the four days. He took a one-iron off the tee on must curial holes with thin fairways banked by heavy rough.

This time the rough has been cut back a little, but Nicklaus may use the strategy that brought him victory six years ago.

Defending champion Lee Trevino was second favorite behind Nicklaus. Gary Player of South Africa was third choice with the bookies for the title worth $10,400 to the winner.

Arnold Palmer, a 20-1 shot but always a popular contender, said after his first practice round: "Muirfield is playing fast and short. It's not as tough as it was when Jack won."

"My problem," Arnie added, "is not that I'm hitting the ball badly—I cannot putt it."

Phillies-Dodgers share split

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

People make mistakes which, of course, is why they put erasers on the tops of lead pencils. Frank Lucchesi has run out of erasers in Philadelphia and Paul Owens has just scratched the surface of his first one.

Owens, already general manager of the Phillies, replaced Lucchesi as field manager on Monday and then piloted the club to a two-night doubleheader split against Los Angeles, losing the first game 6-4 in 11 innings but taking the nightcap 9-1.

Owens, obviously, is a slow starter. Unfortunately for him, so are the Phillies.

Elsewhere on an abbreviated National League schedule, San Francisco overtook slumping New York 5-4 and Montreal defeated San Diego 6-3 with two Padre players winding up in the hospital. All other NL clubs had the night off.

Lucchesi had admitted at his departing news conference that he would "have to take some of the blame for the team's performance." Owens was quick to do the same thing when the Phillies flopped in their first game under their new skipper.

The score was tied 3-3 in the seventh when Roger Freed singled and moved up on a sacrifice. Owens sent up pinch hitter Joe Lis who singled. Plus one for the new manager. But Freed, no gazelle on the basepaths, was thrown out trying to score. Owens hadn't bothered with a pinch runner. Minus one for the manager.

The Phillies almost got Owens off the hook when Greg Luzinski's RBI single gave them the lead in the eighth but Willie Davis tied it for the Dodgers with a homer in the ninth. Two innings later, LA loaded the bases with none out and broke the tie on Wes Parker's sacrifice fly and an RBI single by Bill Buckner.

Don Money had an early three-run homer for Philadelphia.

Willie Montanez took care of the nightcap, driving in five runs with a single, triple and homer. Woody Fryman tossed a six-hitter for the victory, disturbed only by Manny Mota's eighth-inning homer.

The Mets dropped their fifth game in the last six, bowing to San Francisco and slipping 4½ games behind idle Pittsburgh in the East Division race.

Dave Rader and Willie McCovey had homers for the Giants but it took a two-run single by Chris Speier in the eighth inning to turn the game around. Jim Fregosi, who had a two-run homer for the Mets, had singled home another run in the seventh for a 4-3 New York lead.

Ken Singleton and Mike Jorgensen tagged consecutive eighth inning homers, easing Montreal past San Diego.

The Padres had two players carried off the field on a stretcher in the first three innings. First, catcher Fred Kendall banged into the backstop going after Ron Fairly's foul pop in the first inning. He suffered a bruised shoulder and cut forehead. Then, in the third, Leron Lee was struck on the batting helmet by a pitched ball. Both players were taken to the hospital for X rays.

Nate Colbert also homered for the Padres.

Wine may take coaching job

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Wine's playing days with the Montreal Expos are over but the veteran shortstop has been offered a coaching position with the National League baseball club.

"I'm not surprised," said Wine after being told he had been placed on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

"I could see the handwriting on the wall. It's too early to say what I will do right now. I have until the end of the week until waivers are cleared.

Bobby demands changes; chess match begins today

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — American challenger Bobby Fischer and Russian defender Boris Spassky finally begin play this afternoon in the richest and most publicized world chess championship of all time — unless some new snag develops.

ops.

Last-minute adjustments were being made on the stage of Reykjavik's 2,500-seat sports hall. The playing table was shortened, the green-and-white marble chessboard constructed for the fourth time, and the overhead lighting changed.

But these were small details compared to the tangled negotiations and war of nerves that preceded the encounter, originally set to start July 2.

Spassky, 35, drew the white chessmen and with them the first move. Fisher, 29, of Brooklyn, N.Y., had the black pieces. One game will be played each Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday, starting at 5 p.m. — 1 p.m. EDT.

National prestige was at stake for the defending Russian. The Soviet Union subsidizes chess and has dominated the game for decades. Fischer is the first foreigner to make it to the finals since 1948.

For Fischer, it is a question of money and personal prestige, of proving his claim that he is the best in the world.

London oddsmakers rated the lanky American the favorite to win the 24-game, two-month competition and capture more than $180,000 of the estimated $300,000 at stake.

The winner gets five-eighths of the $125,000 put up by the Icelandic Chess Federation, or $78,125, plus another $75,000 of the $120,000 provided by London investment banker James Slater to persuade Fischer to end his holdout last week. Organizers calculate Fischer and Spassky will divide at least another $55,000 from the sale of television and film rights.

Both players stayed in seclusion. Spassky was reported nervous and upset.

Fischer, who favors sleeping in the daytime, was last seen at 1 a.m., Monday, when he visited the sports hall. He demanded that the mahogany playing table be shortened and that the overhead lights be changed.

The challenger also agreed with the Russian's complaints that the squares on the chessboard were too large in relation to the size of the pieces.

Perry spins four-hitter for 2-1 win over White Sox

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The rest of the nation may be into the "dry look," but as far as Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner is concerned, Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians still digs greasy kid stuff.

"Listen, I respect any manager who's trying to win—and that's what Tanner is trying to do," Perry said after spinning a four-hitter for his 14th victory of the season, a 2-1 triumph over the White Sox Monday night which Tanner protested.

In other American League games, Kansas City edged Baltimore 3-2, Detroit defeated Texas 8-3, Minnesota blitzed Milwaukee 8-1, California nipped the New York Yankees 4-3 and Boston beat Oakland 4-2.

In the abbreviated National League schedule, San Francisco turned back the New York Mets 5-4, Montreal beat San Diego 6-3 and, in a twilight doubleheader, Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 6-4 in 11 innings before the Phillies won the nightcap 9-1.

Perry, who tied Detroit's Mickey Lolich as the winningest pitcher in the majors this season—with a little help from Mickey's cousin, Ron—has never admitted to putting anything on the baseball except spit-spin.

At one time or another, an awful lot of batters have said Perry's pitches have more spit than spin—or some other illegal substance. Tanner insists it's grease. And he was so sure of it Monday night that, after 2½ innings, he told plate umpire Bill Haller he was playing the game under protest.

"That's Tanner's privilege to protest if he wants, and that's what I told him on the field," Haller explained. "It's a matter of judgment—and in my judgment, Perry wasn't doing anything illegal."

But Tanner had different ideas. "If we don't win the protest," he fumed, "Perry will be allowed to use his grease ball all the time. And if he is, everybody else will be allowed to do the same. There'll be a rush on the market for the jelly he uses."

Graig Nettles' sacrifice fly gave the Indians their first run in the first inning, then Ron Lolich provided what proved to be the winner in the fourth with his first major league home run. The White Sox picked up an unearned run in the sixth.

Rookie Texas pitcher Don Stanhouse couldn't believe what happened to him. The Tigers, en route to taking over sole possession of first place in the East, pounded him for seven of their eight runs in the first three innings.

Was he that bad or was Detroit that good, someone asked. "I don't know," Stanhouse said, shaking his head in disbelief, "I just don't know."

Norm Cash belted two home runs and Jim Northrup added one for the Tigers while Don Mincher hit the 200th of his career and Hal King also had one for the Rangers.

Routine shot could be the most important

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"In a National Open, if you have a chance to win and don't do it, you won't get the chance again—and you'll never win it at all," Gary Player says.

"Look at Sam Snead," he continued. "I'd like to argue he's the greatest player who ever lived. And he never won the U.S. Open after he blew his first chance."

And it's for that reason, the little South African said, that a more or less routine five iron shot may be the most important he's stroked in his career.

"It was in the 1965 U.S. Open at Bellerive in St. Louis," Player said. "I had a three stroke lead over Kel Nagle with three holes to play."

"On the 16th, a very long hole, I hit it in a bunker and then three-putted for a double bogey. Nagle was playing ahead of me and I heard a big yell from the gallery. I found out he'd made birdie on the 17th."

"Now, from a three-shot lead, I was back to even. The momentum was going the other way and I was faced with making par on the last hole to save a tie and force a playoff."

"I drove the fairway and had a five iron to the green. I hit it 18 feet from the pin to make it an easy par. That may be the most important one."

Player went on to beat Nagle in an 18-hole playoff for the title the next day, completing his sweep of all the world's major championships. He was only the third man to do so.

"I've hit many better shots, but none more important," he said. "It was so important because I was going for the grand slam. And if I'd missed, I may have never gotten another chance."

All-Star balloting continues

NEW YORK (AP)—Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan and Chicago shortstop Don Kessinger assumed the lead in their respective positions Monday as fan balloting continued for the National League All-Star team.

Kessinger, who had been trailing Bud Harrelson since the start of the balloting which concludes next week, moved past the Mets' star with 497,193 votes to 471,349.

Morgan closed fast to lead Glenn Beckert of the Cubs 402,446 votes to 390,785.

Third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis and first baseman Lee May of Cincinnati maintained lopsided leads in their positions. May lead Willie McCovey of the Giants 455,811 to 287,757 while Torre had 812,185 votes to 285,477 for runner-up Ron Santo.

Reds catcher Johnny Bench continued to dominate balloting for his position, leading Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh 836,004 to 496,816. Henry Aaron of the Braves leads balloting for the outfield, followed by Roberto Clemente and Willie Stargell of the Pirates.

'I just wanted to win too much' says Palmer

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

MURFIELD, Scotland (AP) — "I keep on trying to make something happen—but it just doesn't."

Arnold Palmer, perhaps the most popular player golf has ever known and the man generally acknowledged to be the driving force behind the enormous growth of the game, was talking about his failure to win this season.

"I've had a chance to win three times, real good chances," Palmer said, a slight, puzzled frown creasing one of the world's most-photographed faces.

"But every time I got in position to win, every time I thought I had something going, something always happened. I think I just wanted to win too much and got too anxious."

The 42-year-old master who put the word "charge" in golf's lexicon was making one of his fabled runs at the leaders in the final round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic—then hit one out of bounds.

Again, at Dallas, in the Byron Nelson Classic he mounted a last round challenge. The word went out: "Arnie's charging. The King is making his move."

His always huge gallery swelled to massive proportions as the faithful stampeded to his side to witness another miracle.

Instead they viewed consecutive three-putt bogeys that killed it all.

At Greensboro, he held a two-stroke lead going to the par three 16th hole on the final day. America's television audience watched in dismay and disbelief as he hit into a shallow stream at the bottom of a ditch, elected to play it out and took a lead-destroying, confidence-shattering triple bogey six that cost him the title.

"I've had trouble with my concentration," he mused before a practice round for the British Open, which begins Wednesday. "My mind wanders. All of a sudden I'm not there. I'm off in a cloud or something somewhere else."

He's had other troubles, too. With his putter, with his irons, even with his driver, usually the most reliable club in his bag.

And there's his eyes. He's experimented with eye-glasses and contact lenses to correct a near-sighted condition. He recently abandoned them.

But even with the glasses, and advancing years, and increasing girth, and greying, thinning hair, and the lack of victories, Palmer still exerts a magic effect on galleries all over the world.

And, although he admitted at the United States Open: "I sometimes think I may never win another major title only because you guys (reporters) keep talking about it," the flame of desire and competition burns as brightly as ever.

How much does he want to win?

"As much or more than I wanted to win my first tournament."

Jacklin remembers

'That's the one'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The putt hit the back of the cup, leaped into the air like a game fish fighting the line and then dropped in—etching the scene indelibly in Tony Jacklin's memory.

"That's the one I'll always remember," the personable young Englishman said.

It was in the last round of the 1970 U.S. Open Championship at much-maligned Hazeltine in Chaska, Minn.

Jacklin, bidding to become the first Englishman in 50 years to win the American national title, was leading when he approached the ninth green. He was faced with a very difficult, 35-foot downhill putt on the lightning-fast green.

"I was putting good," Jacklin recalled. "You get streaks like that and I got mine at the right time."

"But I hit that one too hard. I didn't want to leave it short and I was pumped up. It was on line but too hard. It rolled right over the hole and jumped straight up in the air—just like a trout—then dropped back in."

"It was going so fast I swear it must have gone more than a foot up, maybe a foot-and-a-half."

"I had a two- or three-stroke lead over Dave Hill at that point, but if the ball hadn't hit the cup it would have gone right off the green and who knows what may have happened."

"That's the putt that won the tournament for me."

Jacklin went on to make a rout of it, winning by seven strokes as he collected his second U.S. Open title. The victory made him financially independent and established him as a national hero in Britain.

New discovery in old bones?

ELY, Minn. (AP) — Human skulls, bones and artifacts found in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area four years ago and kept secret until recently could be those of a prehistoric type of man never before found anywhere, scientists studying them say.

The skulls are under study at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. and if Dr. T. Dale Stewart determines the skulls are unique enough to warrant further investigation, a Carbon-14 age test will be made.

The test requires burning one gram of bone material, and University of Minnesota scientists have been reluctant to destroy any of the material.

A copyrighted article in the Duluth News-Tribune Sunday told of the find and a report by Dr. Elden Johnson, Minnesota state archaeologist.

Norman Saari, Tofte Lake resort owner, discovered the bones Sept. 6, 1968 in an eroding gravel bank used as a canoe landing for a campsite. The exact location is being kept secret.

The skulls have extremely low foreheads and prominent brow ridges. Johnson said the combination suggests the skulls are typical examples of what must have been a very early type of man or an inbred population.

"The skulls...may well represent a pre-Indian type of man that is more closely related to Neanderthal man than any previously found. Their discovery tends to push the date of occupation of the Western Hemisphere by human beings way back," said Dr. Richard Adams, an anthropologist and leader of the university team that first examined the find.

Adams added that the skulls also could "represent a remnant population of a primitive type of man who inhabited the North American continent long ago and somehow survived until comparatively recent times by living in isolated refuge areas."

BODY FOUND

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The body of Bendell Curtis Kelly, 32, of Dallas, Tex., was found Sunday beside a fence around a soybean field along Interstate 30 about 12 miles northeast of here, Sheriff Leslie Greer of Miller County said.

Greer said two murder warrants had been issued. He declined to elaborate.

Jubilant scientists race eclipse

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Delighted scientists drank champagne toasts to the successful airborne chase of an eclipse of the sun, which they say is certain to yield new findings about the fiery orb.

"We expect to find all sorts of new things," said a beaming Dr. Arthur Cox, the expedition's leader, after the team of astronomers recorded the pearly white grandeur of the solar corona Monday.

The corona is the ring of hot gases that stream millions of miles out into space. Scientists hope that by studying it they can find clues to how the sun interacts with earth and interferes with man's activities.

Crowded into a converted Air Force cargo jet stuffed with 15 tons of scientific gear, the scientists, from the Los Alamos (N.M.) Scientific Laboratory, intercepted the eclipse 39,000 feet over the Arctic Circle northeast of ice-filled Hudson Bay in Canada's Northwest Territories.

As the shadow of the moon passing in front of the sun streaked southeastward at 1,000 miles an hour, the flying laboratory raced it, reaching 565 miles per hour. This gave the scientists a precious 116 additional seconds during which they could view the sun totally obscured and see the white corona etched against the blackness of space.

They kept their instruments in this path of "totality" for three minutes and 45 seconds, and the results, except for a few minor problems, delighted everyone.

When the sun vanished altogether at 3:42 p.m. EDT, the airplane's interior was almost as dark as night. Astronomers hovering over their telescopes and radiation-measuring devices used pencil flashlights to perform their duties.

Outside, the ground was obscured by a thick layer of clouds and the black, oval-shaped lunar shadow could be seen 50 miles in opposite directions, with fluffy clouds brightly lit by the sun beyond the shadow. The view was the most striking from the cockpit.

"Out in front of us after the eclipse passed us we could see this huge circular shadow 120 miles wide moving across the clouds below us. It was the most fantastic sight I've ever seen," said Maj. Dan Yergler, the pilot.

Gift to city

The Hope Parks and Recreation Department recently added this bus to its inventory. The bus, a gift from Corn Belt Hatcheries, will be used for transportation connected with any activities sponsored by the department. The Red River Vocational-Technical School overhauled the engine and checked out the rest of the vehicle for the department. The bus has been in use only a few weeks.

Force or submission? Decisions are weighed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Decisions to use force against a hijacker rather than submit to him are carefully weighed in advance, says John H. Shaffer, Federal Aviation Administrator.

The decisions by the air crews in consultation with federal authorities, including the FBI, are balanced against the risks involved before action is taken, he says.

In the case of the two hijackers shot to death aboard their commandeered plane at San Francisco, and the one killed in the attempted hijacking of a 747 at Saigon, the circumstances were carefully weighed and the response was appropriate, Shaffer said in an interview Monday.

"Our strengthened stand against hijacking does not necessarily mean we shoot first," he said.

"We are trying to head off killing. None of us is trying to take unnecessary risks when thinking what we will be able to do with minimum loss of life," he added.

One passenger was killed and two others wounded in the gun battle between FBI agents and the two hijackers aboard the hijacked plane in San Francisco last Wednesday. The FBI said one of the hijackers fired the shots that hit the passengers.

Shaffer said those who would castigate the pilot of the 747 for his actions leading to the fatal shooting of the young hijacker at Saigon should consider the alternative of flying a large plane load of American military personnel into the North Vietnam capital.

Church leaders gathering for Turk funeral

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
Associated Press Writer

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Funeral services for Ecumenical Patriarch Athenagoras were held today before scores of officials representing many nations and the Protestant and Roman Catholic churches.

The election of a new spiritual leader for the 250-million member Eastern Orthodox Church gave the Turkish government increasing concern in the face of protests from the Greek government.

Black-robed Orthodox bishops with flowing white beards chanted the funeral service, presided over by Metropolitan Archbishop Meliton, a member of the patriarchal Holy Synod. Meliton is considered the leading candidate to succeed Athenagoras who died Friday at the age of 86.

The selection of a new patriarch became embroiled in controversy even before Athenagoras was buried.

Ambassador John Tsounis of Greece filed an official protest with Premier Ferit Melen Monday night over conditions set by the Istanbul governor for the election of a new patriarch. Gov. Vefa Poyraz has said that the elections must be held in the presence of a notary public and the outcome be subject to his final approval.

The patriarchate is considered a Turkish institution according to the 1922 Lausanne treaty despite its presence in a Moslem country.

A Foreign Ministry official denied that the Turkish government wanted to intervene in the election for a new patriarch.

Although Turkey's 37 million inhabitants are 99 per cent Moslem, the government does not impose restrictions on any faith.

Following the hour-long service, the simple black and silver casket was to be carried to the Balikli Christian Cemetery, three miles beyond the walls of Istanbul, where 13 other Ecumenical Patriarchs are buried.

Among those who came for the funeral were Dr. Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of the Church of England; Jan Cardinal Willebrands, president of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity; Archbishop Giovanni Benelli, the Vatican undersecretary of state, and leaders of the other Eastern Orthodox churches.

An ecumenical delegation of American Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churchmen also had planned to attend the funeral but stayed home after the Turkish government refused to admit Archbishop Iakovos of the Greek Orthodox Church in the Americas. Iakovos has been out of favor in Turkey since he asked President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1965 to intercede for the Greek community in Turkey during tension over Cyprus.

The 12 bishops of the Patriarchal Holy Synod must meet by Aug. 6, within 30 days of the death of Athenagoras, to elect his successor.

Texas musters anti-McGovern votes Monday

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Texas' delegation mustered a consistent 96 anti-McGovern votes in the first confrontations of the Democratic National Convention, but generally found itself on the losing side.

The 34 Texas delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota were happy after the convention returned McGovern's 151 California delegates early today, but they admitted it would be hard work carrying the state in November.

"We'd sure work at it," said a beaming Mrs. Frances Farrenthold of Corpus Christi, chairman of Texas', McGovern caucus and a staunch worker in his campaign. "It's a wonderful night."

"There's no way he could carry Texas," countered Hall Timanus, Houston, head of the George Wallace delegates who will make a seconding speech Wednesday night when the Alabama governor is nominated.

"There's no way he could do it without the support of Wallace, and that is extremely unlikely. We will still insist on our platform issues and if they are not adopted the outlook will be even more bleak."

"I think the situation is still fluid," added Dolph Briscoe, delegation chairman and the party nominee for governor. "I do not necessarily think Senator McGovern has the nomination sewed up."

Briscoe is an uncommitted delegate on presidential preference, but he joined with supporters of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Wallace and other uncommitted delegates in votes on South Carolina and California challenges. The Texas vote was 96-34 on both.

Believes suit hearing could damage campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Committee for the Re-election of the President is worried that a hearing on a suit involving the break-in and bugging attempt at Democratic headquarters here could cause "incalculable" damage to President Nixon's campaign.

For this reason, the committee asked U.S. District Court Monday to postpone the hearing on a $1 million damage suit against the committee until after the Nov. 7 election.

The suit was filed by Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien after it was revealed that one of the five men arrested in the May 15 break-in was James W. McCord Jr., the security coordinator for the re-election committee.

However, to hear the suit before the election, the committee said, could deter campaign workers and contributions, force disclosure of confidential campaign information and provide the Democrats with a reason to hold news conferences.

The concern expressed to the court contrasted with a statement by former Nixon campaign manager John N. Mitchell, who earlier had said the Democrats' suit was a "political stunt."

The suit claimed damages on grounds that the break-in interfered with rights of all Democrats. The five men allegedly were arrested inside the Democratic headquarters and were charged with burglary. Police also seized a quantity of electronic bugging equipment.

Kenneth W. Parkinson, attorney for the re-election committee, told the court that hearings prior to the Nov. 7 election would "allow Mr. O'Brien and the Democratic National Committee to utilize this lawsuit as a forum from which to accuse this committee of complicity in criminal conduct throughout the election campaign."

He denied the committee was involved in the break-in. But he said repeated mention of the "coincidental employment" of McCord by the committee would be particularly damaging.

'Mutt' Jones trial starts; government states case to jury

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The government said Monday that it would prove that state Sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway received 40 per cent more income from his law practice in 1965 and 1966 than reported on his tax returns.

The statement was made by Asst. U. S. Atty. James G. Mixon in U. S. District Court here as Jones went on trial Monday on charges of evading $5,209.25 in income taxes and filing false tax returns for the years 1965 and 1966.

A jury of six men and six women was seated for the trial. Leon B. Catlett of Little Rock, Jones' attorney, said Jones prepared his tax returns to the best of his ability and believed they were correct.

"He did not willfully violate the tax laws of the United States," Catlett said.

Mixon said the government would call 60 witnesses in the trial, Catlett did not know how many witnesses he would use.

Mixon and Asst. U. S. Atty. Robert F. Fussell called nine witnesses Monday mostly to inroduce records of Jones' bank accounts and to testify about legal fees.

Mixon told the jury the government's case dealt entirely with Jones' law practice. He said Jones collected many fees in cash and spent the money without depositing it in a bank. Mixon said 30 to 40 witnesses would testify that they paid legal fees to Jones, and agents of the Internal Revenue service would testify that part or all of these fees were omitted from Jones' tax returns. The government's key witness will be IRS special agent James A. Brown.

Catlett told the jury that "Guy Jones is not a cheat and he's not a crook. He's an honorable man and a good citizen."

Catlett said Jones kept records of his legal fees in a receipt book and a letter box file, and recorded his expenses in the files of each case he handled, Catlett said. He said Jones prepared his returns from these records and thought they were correct. "Guy Jones is not guilty of the charges in the indictment," Catlett said. Jones was indicted in February. Two of the four counts in the indictment allege tax evasion and the other two allege filing of false tax returns.

Count No. 1 charges that Jones filed a joint income tax return for himself and his wife for 1965 that declared taxable income of $11,239.48 with a tax due of $2,092.69, when the taxable income actually was $22,565.60 with tax due of $4,041.54.

Count No. 3 charges that in preparing his and his wife's joint return for 1966, Jones listed a taxable income of $1,569, with a tax due of $225.47 when the actual taxable income was $20,072.20 with a tax due of $3,484.87.

Counts No. 2 and 4 charge that Jones knowingly understated the gross income from his law practice on the 1965 and 1966 tax returns. Jones had filed a motion to dismiss these two counts on the ground that they constituted the same alleged offenses as in counts No. 1 and 3. Judge J. Smith Henley denied the motion.

The trial was to continue at 9:30 a.m. today.

Collins to testify

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former top aide to Texas Rep. Jim Collins took the stand in his own defense today to say it was the congressman, not he, who arranged kickbacks and House payroll manipulation to pay off 1968 campaign bonuses.

George A. Haag also said the Dallas millionaire Republican told him, after kickbacks were reported by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson in March 1970, "he was removing all records from the office for our mutual protection."

The congressman, who had been called to testify Monday and then again today in U.S.

Tax board very undersupervised,
grand jury says

HELENA, Ark. (AP) — The office of delinquent personal tax collector may be the most undersupervised office in the state's tax collection system in almost every county the Phillips County Grand Jury says.

Lawson Hornor of West Helena, foreman, said a probe of the Phillips County office led the jury to believe that the Delinquent Tax Board does not regulate the office.

The jury has indicated Mrs. Doris Munden, the county's delinquent personal tax collector, on charges of converting $30,983 in public funds to personal use from Jan. 1, 1966 to last March 15. State auditors said the money has been repaid.

Mrs. Munden is the daughter of C. S. Fielder, who is county judge. Fielder, Mayor Bill Stratton of Helena and County School Supt. W. E. Taylor composed the board, which appointed Mrs. Munden to her position.

Hornor said the grand jury found that the board had not met in years and that the board wasn't knowledgeable of the laws governing its duties.

"It's just one of those offices that's not been looked into for years in any county," he said.

The jury made eight recommendations for the operation of the office and about auditing procedures. One recommendation was that the board adhere strictly to state law pertaining to board duties, including meeting every 90 days to review records of the collector.

District Court was put off by defense lawyers again. They said he still might be called late today.

Collins has no been charged. Haag told the court Collins had promised him a $10,000 bonus to manage the 1968 campaign, Kenny Newman $5,000, Michael D. Henning $1,500 and Lynne O'Shea $1,000.

But in November when Haag asked about the bonuses, Haag testified, "He said I'm sick and tired of paying these expenses out of my own pocket."

"He said we're going to get everybody up on the congressional payroll and that is how you'll get your bonuses," Haag said.

But he said in his own case Collins told him he would be paid the $10,000 bonus by putting Henning and another campaign employee Ray Fortner Jr., on the congressional payroll "and they'll be in a position to rebate money back to you and that way you'll get your bonus."

Haag, 33, former chief Washington aide to Collins, is accused of taking more than $13,000 in kickbacks through falsification of House payroll forms and mail fraud. He also is charged with obstructing justice by inducing fellow employees to lie to the FBI and to a federal grand jury investigating the kickback scheme.

Defense attorney Leslie Scherr charged in court Monday that Collins was behind the scheme, which allegedly was arranged to award bonuses to four employees, including Haag, who helped in the congressman's 1968 re-election campaign.

Search for jury has begun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The search for a jury to try the Pentagon Papers case has begun with probing questions aimed at revealing attitudes toward the U.S. government and its policies.

Six potential jurors already have been excused after declaring their opinions were so strong concerning the controversial case that they could not be impartial.

They were excused Monday in the first day of the trial after the judge dismissed 18 other possible jurors for hardship reasons.

Scherr acknowledged that Haag issued the direct orders for the kickbacks, although he contended that Collins made the decision. He said Collins might not have known it was illegal.

"The congressman organized the coverup, as I call it," Scherr said in his opening argument. "He had Haag come to his office and sign a statement that he had never received (the) money from the congressman."

A former Collins secretary, Mrs. Mary Sue Scott, said in testimony Monday that Collins "had a weak personality," that Haag "could con anyone" and that Haag ran the office even to the point of telling Collins how to vote on the House floor.

In a deposition read to the court, she said she personally kicked back $600 from her federal paycheck to Collins to repay travel expenses in 1968. She said Collins later asked her to sign a statement that she had not done so, but she refused.

She said Collins told her and another employee, Mrs. Linda Stephenson, that he would send them to Dallas to work on his 1968 campaign and they would repay the travel expenses from inflated House paychecks he would give them for October.

Mrs. Scott said her October check was for about $1,200, compared to her usual $452 a month. She said she was supposed to give the $600 to Haag but couldn't find him, and the congressman reluctantly agreed to take the money himself.

Mrs. Stephenson testified she was paid $1,425 in October, rather than her usual $340, to $350 a month, and was told by Haag to repay $581 of it in a check made out to Haag.

$4.5 million pledged to Democrats

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Robert Strauss, treasurer of the Democratic party, said today the total money raised at the party's weekend telethon "will definitely go over $5 million."

"The telethon attracted more than one-half million donors," Strauss told an orientation meeting of delegates here for the national convention.

When the 19-hour telethon closed, the total pledged was $4.5 million, with telephone calls still stacked up and mail contributions yet to come.

But despite the financial success of the program, the party is still more than $6 million in debt from the 1968 campaign.

The party conducted the television extravaganza in an effort to wipe out a $9.3-million 1968 debt. Performers appearing on the show which ended Sunday night donated their services, but the Democrats reportedly had to pay the ABC television network $1.6 million for the airtime.

Officials were hopeful that late mail-in contributions would push the show's gross over $5 million.

Viewers pledged the contributions via telephone calls to 32 regional centers manned by 12,000 volunteers or charged it to credit cards.

news media of the top secret Pentagon Papers.

The papers, printed about 13 months ago in the New York Times and other papers, revealed origins of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war. Ellsberg and Russo have admitted copying the papers and Ellsberg says he leaked them, but both claim they didn't commit crimes.

The defendants sat side by side in court flanked by lawyers. Outside the courthouse they issued vehement antiwar statements.

New building

For the record, a majority of the employees of the Bruner-Ivory, Händle Company here are on vacation, and during their two-week absence, workmen razed an old tin-sided building, then constructed the above new quarters. Extensive improvements are planned at the plant, a company spokesman said.

Crash survivors arrive at Guam

AGANA, Guam (AP) — Four of the five survivors from a B52 bomber which crashed into the sea Friday arrived here Sunday aboard the submarine Barb.

The submarine Gurnard was to arrive later with a fifth survivor.

A sixth crewman, Lt. Col. James L. Vaughan of Huntsville, Ark., died before rescuers reached the area and a search for his body has been unsuccessful, the Air Force said.

One survivor, Maj. Ronald E. Dvorak of Parker, S.D., wore a cast on his left arm. Doctors said Dvorak suffered a broken elbow as he ejected from the bomber.

The five men were rescued from their liferafts Saturday in a storm-tossed sea after a rescue attempt the previous night failed.

Burgess had been gagged with his underwear, belt and shoe laces, the sheriff said. He said Burgess sometimes cleaned up storefronts, swept sidewalks and performed like tasks and often walked in the woods.

Pinto Wagon: $2265*

We put a lot into it. You can put a lot in it.

What you can put in: over 60 cubic feet. Put the rear seat down and there's 60.6 cubic feet of carrying space. For comparison: VW Squareback and Vega Kammback both give you a bit over 50 cubic feet.

The basic $2265* model.

It's the ideal choice for people who want an economy car that carries more — or a wagon that costs less. The white sidewall tires (shown here) are $28.00

Some Details.

1. The lift gate swings up and out of the way.
2. The rear passenger windows flip open.
3. The spare tire doesn't take up any load room because it has its own well under the floor. And beneath it all, the rear suspension is specially designed for load carrying.

Front Disc Brakes. Standard.

And there's precise rack-and-pinion steering, which is normally found only in some of the more expensive sports cars.

2000cc Overhead Cam Engine. It's rugged, economical, peppy—and standard equipment. A 4-speed floor mounted all-synchromesh transmission is also standard.

Better idea for safety... buckle up!
